

12 Barnaby Barford That's Amore · 2010

Porcelain found objects,
ceramic with decals (H20 × D30cm)

£1,000 — £3,000 (Estimate)

Represented by David Gill Galleries, London.

Barnaby Barford is an artist who works primarily with ceramics to create unique narrative pieces. Working with both mass-market and antique found porcelain figurines, Barford creates playful sculptural objects that are often sinister and sardonic but invariably humorous. With irony, he draws a portrait of our contemporary culture.

1977
2000
2002

Born in England. Lives and works in London.
BA 3D Design, University of Plymouth, Exeter
MA Ceramics and Glass, Royal College of Art, London

Selected exhibitions 2010: The Battle of Trafalgar, OA Madrid, Madrid (solo); Damaged Goods, David Gill Galleries, London (solo). 2009: Porzellan – Weisses Gold, Museum Bellerive, Zürich; Object Factory, Museum of Art and Design, New York; The Good, The Bad, The Belle, Spring Projects, London (solo); Our Objects, Contemporary Ceramics in Context, Glasgow (touring); Global Books, "Cité du Livre", Aix en Provence, France.

Image courtesy of the artist